“Reading maketh a full man;
conference a ready man;
and writing an exact man.”

— Francis Bacon

Ambition, reflection and devotion

The Literary Compass brings Renaissance imagination, metaphysical thought and Indian devotional wisdom into a connected study of literature. Literary history and concepts prepare students to read poetry, essays, allegory and drama with confidence.

From the reflections of Bacon and Montaigne to Bunyan’s spiritual journey and the moral darkness of Macbeth, the book explores how literature shapes thought and conduct. Meera, Kabir and Tiruvalluvar extend this inquiry through devotion, self-knowledge and ethical life.
