“There is a way to be good again.”

—Khaled Hosseini
The Kite Runner

Home, exile and shared humanity

Explore contemporary world literature through migration, memory, language and cultural identity. Poetry and prose from different regions connect private experience with public history, revealing how belonging is made and questioned across borders.

Hosseini’s The Kite Runner explores friendship, exile, guilt and redemption. Soyinka’s The Lion and the Jewel examines gender, power and cultural change. Dharwadker’s language history and Shiva’s ecological thought extend the discussion into knowledge, justice and human dignity.
